

MOUNTAIN HOME AREA READING COUNCIL

In the Mountain Home area, we are fortunate to have a river and lakes nearby, as well as two dams, generating power. . The number of generators on at the dams controls the depth of the area lakes fed by those dams. Sometimes, trout fisherman wade into the cold waters and, if the generators are on, sometimes they have to use a boat to pursue their record-breaking catch. Just like the lake levels, our membership numbers go up and down. Right now, we are in the "wading" part but are anxious for those generators to click on! Our county will open a new library in September and we are hoping that will be just the thing to "generate" some new members! Our membership flows from elementary to middle school teachers and students as well as administrators and college folk. Our activities have helped to float books and reading opportunities throughout the communities we serve. The County Fair Parade will happen in September and we plan to have a float in the parade and walk along the parade route, distributing books - as we have for the past several years. Except for last year. We got rained out! Books flowed as we met with parents and children during special parent nights. Reading challenges helped us to keep the flow of reading to worldwide projects such as the Rotary Uganda Project.
